YOUTH will illumine the world with a flame of hope for tomorrow

VOL. V

East Longmeadow High School
East Longmeadow, Massachusetts

JUN 1 '66

"How rare is the land . . .

President Lyndon B. Johnson

This is not the lost generation or the silent generation or the indifferent generation. This is the concerned and the committed generation. And I, for one, believe that adult America should be proud and should be thankful that young America—youthful America—is so concerned for their country, so committed and dedicated to a genuine understanding of all of America's problems. . . .

This world we live in is a restless world. It is a world filled with revolution and even violence . . . , and, whether you know it or not, it is a world with slums and shacks; it is a world without lights or water in the homes; it is a world without food on the shelves or health in the bodies; a world with too few doctors and too few teachers.

So, this is a world where hope is too rare and help is too scarce. Wherever and whenever men struggle to escape this misery, no nation ought to be neutral—whatever be the continent or the creed or the color of those who reach upward striving and yearning for a better life.

It will be asked of you, and it will be asked of me: What did you do—you, the children of abundance—what did you do to help those who were hungry, and those who were sick, and those who were fatherless, and those who were homeless?

You must give the hours of your life, and the fruits of your learning, and the courage of your spirit, and the substance of your home to those in need in every continent of the earth. . . .

Then only will you have really met your duty to your God and your country . . . , but most of all, to yourself.

To do this you must prepare yourself. You have been doing that in this school.

Whether you go on to college or not, you will continue your education for the rest of your life. For to stop learning, at any age, is to relapse into ignorance.

—President Lyndon B. Johnson

From a speech delivered at the National Cathedral School, Washington, D.C. June 1, 1965.

. . . How extraordinary the people"

"Whoso neglects learning in his youth, loses the past and is dead for the future."

To our generation, born on a new frontier and destined for the stars, do we the CLASS OF 1966 dedicate our Aegis . . . and ourselves. It is a confidence—a profound belief in the spirit of youth that impels us to this dedication. For us, this is the time of perfect idealism . . . and imperfect knowledge. To those who would judge us, we make this appeal: "Guide us toward our hopeful vision of a new world." Ours is a boundless vision dawning with the abolition of prejudice and the creation of world peace—promising ultimately the freedom of man . . . and the conquest of the universe.

Persons observed so rarely . . .

The validity of a conclusion is only as true as the foundations of its premise. Similarly, the success of a school depends on the wisdom of its system's policies. There has been unparalleled progress in our town during these past fifteen years. Chance did not bring us to our present high level of development, and chance will not make us "better tomorrow." On these pages, you see a few of the persons who have devoted their talents and time to making our system faithful to the high standards of the past and equal to the ever-changing demands of the future. Theirs is a great responsibility and an endless task—seldom appreciated, but continually rewarded by the smooth efficiency and high quality of the East Longmeadow schools. They fully deserve the honored title: "Educators."

Superintendent of Schools

The rapid typing, the daily dictation, the policies formulated—the natural results of cooperation between an administrator, Mr. Sheldon, and his aide, Mrs. Anderson.

. . . achieving results so important

An important day for a prospective teacher as Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Jarvis compare his qualifications with our needs.

"Good today—better tomorrow"—a motto becomes a reality under our progressive School Board. Left to right, Mr. Donald Bremner, Mr. Ray S. Jones, Mr. Gordon Grady, Mr. James M. Towle, and Mrs. William B. Hazen.

The hours and days of a versatile administration

This day in the life of our principal
Is like the sweep of a clock's hand
As he goes
From the many to the few
For the many and the few.
A cycle, a circle, a spiral
Yes, a spiral
For each day
Does not bring us to the same place again
But rather a little further along
A little higher above
A little better educated.

The unseen student benefits from this conference between Mrs. Hamlin, Mr. Pendleton, and Mr. Shindler.

Contacting a senior—discussing the future—a pleasant facet of our principal's duties.

Ralph L. Shindler
Principal

An interruption from the "outside world" brings news of an impending conference to Mr. Shindler.

Observing and learning are continuous processes for Mr. Shindler in this surprise visit to a member of his staff.

"East Longmeadow will be the best school in the area. . . ." Mr. Shindler sounds the battle cry for the new year.

Partners in administration, Mr. Hart and Mr. Shindler evaluate and seek to improve the myriad of rules that is the High School Constitution.

To build a legacy of successes

The HISTORY of man is a story of incessant struggle. From the earliest days of his existence, man has struggled against hostile environments and savage beasts. Even with the appearance of civilization and more advanced cultures, the struggle did not cease: man was pitted against man. He was forced to fight to preserve his accomplishments from both barbarians and political tyrants. Man has always struggled and will assuredly continue to struggle, both to recover from his numerous failures and to build a legacy of successes for the future. This is our history.

Approaching the realm of infinity

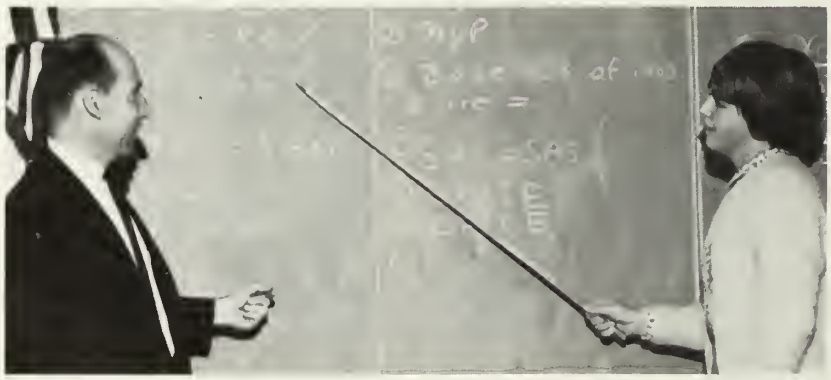

The study of MATHEMATICS is a prerequisite to a field of unlimited exploration. The realm of mathematics approaches the realm of infinity. The discoveries and the uses of the principles dealing with mathematics are of numerous varieties. Regardless of who the individual may be, mathematics is as important to him as to one who wishes to be a statistician or a teacher. In this changing world, we find that rate of discovery demands our acknowledgment of the importance of mathematics and the position it holds in the exploration ahead.

LANGUAGE is a strong chord, binding nations together in harmony. In studying a foreign language, we undertake the learning of not only new and challenging sounds, but also diversified cultures and unfamiliar lands. Language is the core of communication. From it springs all relationships. By learning to converse with peoples of other nations, we express a willingness for discussion of topics of controversy among nations. To educate the whole person: surely this is our goal. No facet of human nature can be left untouched in our educational program. In the ART and MUSIC Departments at East Longmeadow High, as well as in the school LIBRARY, students are given a chance to grow culturally; to benefit from the thoughts, feelings, and reflections of others, and hence to form concepts of living for themselves. Without this transformation of ideals; without this increased understanding of others, our knowledge would be but a useless collection of facts.

To teach

We instruct youngsters not only in Poetry and Geometry, but also in living and life. By word and deed we lead, coach, and guide our students in many extracurricular activities. Who can deny the relationship between the intensity of our activities outside the classroom and the success of our efforts within? The successful teacher—the truly dedicated teacher—is proficient in both areas. This extra time and effort is given willingly . . . because we are teachers.

LEADERS of STUDENT GOVERNMENT in a school that uses its leaders well: Carol Hamlin, Stephen Nelmes, and Janice Haetinger. ADVISOR: Manley Hart.

The Activities at ELHS are many, and avid interest is manifested in them by their large memberships. To take and display pictures of these large groups is to lose the individual in the mass. To prevent this and to afford better opportunities for action photos in a variety of moods, small representative groups have been photographed.

TUTORING underclassmen is one of the selfless tasks undertaken by the HONOR SOCIETY: Thomas Guerra, Carl Swanson, Mary Lynch, and Dorothy McIntire. ADVISOR: John Roan.

East Longmeadow High prides itself on the ability of its students to help themselves. In the many school service groups shown on these pages, students demonstrate a willingness to accept responsibility for the benefit of the entire school. Whether they carry messages or direct Spartanum Spectaculum, check passes or help make school policy, these students have the constant reward of a friendly, efficient school.

PASSES are checked by VARSITY CLUB members in an effort to hold corridor traffic to a minimum: Douglas Burr, Oswald Savaria, Peter Mulcahy. ADVISOR: Robert Troutman.

LIBRARY AIDES are useful guides to the literary knowledge that awaits us: Linda Duncan, Mrs. Lois Lopes, ADVISOR, Beth Dusenberry, Linda Illig.

Positions of Leadership and Service

SURE and friendly service from the OFFICE AIDES: Ruth Ferguson, Patricia Mailler, Barbara Betterley, Christine McGrath, Irene Forbes, Carol McCurry.

Through their daily, monthly, and yearly programs, the organizations shown on this page work toward their common goal: educating others who share their school life. Cognizant themselves of the fact that the best preparation for the future is the development of values now, the students involved in these activities help their fellow students realize the worth of physical fitness, an awareness of current events, and bright memories of the past.

OTHERS discover the benefits of physical fitness because of the efforts of the LEADERS CLUB. Spotting Chris Lipp is Jeanne Cochran, while Sally King looks on. ADVISOR: Jakie Upshaw.

LOGIC is their forte: the DEBATE CLUB: Carl Swanson, Janice Smola, Mary-Ellen Lockhart, Jane Bode. ADVISOR: June Johnson.

The members of the groups shown here, truly our ambassadors of good will and competition, bring ELHS into contact with other schools in the area. Behind the lectern or on the TV screen, these students actively demonstrate the spirit that typifies our school. That benefits accrue to both the participants and our school is obvious. No book or teacher ever taught what is learned by these groups.

Closing the season with six wins and two losses in addition to a crushing defeat over McCann Tech in independent play, the victorious Spartans ended their most successful season in the school's history. Losing only the opener with Minnechaug (24-6) and a heartbreaker with Palmer by only one point (7—6), Coach Vespaziani's gridders enjoyed a season that established a series of firsts and honors for team members. Burly Dave Buddington was voted Most Valuable Player and Dave White walked off with the Hatchet Award for the second year. Quarterback Tim Crary, halfback George Glassanos, and fullback Dave Buddington were named to the All-Suburban League Team, with Buddington also being selected for the All-Western Mass. Team. Exceptional scoring (including the first scoring ever against South Hadley) marked the season with high scorers Buddington (54 points), Glassanos (40 points), and Laliberte (34 points). Aggressive members of the line, averaging 160 pounds—the lightest in the school's history—included Dave White, Bob Willard, Mal Ratner, Gene Duggan, Pete Goodlatte, Dave Brega, and Don Millett. Highlights of the season included a spectacular touchdown play in the beginning seconds of play by the "Roadrunner" Ron Laliberte, three consecutive touchdowns in the first half against archrival Longmeadow, and a determined team effort in the closing seconds of the Palmer game.

The 1965 Soccer season was the best in the history of the school. The Spartans compiled an 8—5—1 record and earned a playoff berth in the Western Mass. Tournament.

During the year, Coach Ralph Cooley received great efforts from every member of the team, particularly from Ossie Savaria, the leading scorer with 8 goals, Steve Steitz, goalie, and Bill Herzog, the center halfback who scored 6 goals. The team also has a fine group of underclassmen returning for another year.

At the end of the season the Spartans fared well in the all-league selections. Ossie Savaria was chosen for the first team of the Pioneer Valley League and for the second team in the all Western Mass. selection. Steve Steitz and Bill Herzog were voted on the Pioneer Valley League second team and Steve Chase, Barry Blaisdell, and Bob Latourelle received Honorable Mentions.

BOUND AND REBOUND describes CHRIS COLEMAN'S maneuvers as JOHN CORLISS (24) and SCOTT SEYMOUR (23) step in to aid against the Longmeadow frosh.

The Spartan cagers posted a winning 7 and 5 season in league play and lost only to Classical in seven independent games. Winning seasons by all three teams—Frosh, JV, and Varsity—marked a season that was highlighted by Steve Steitz closing his high school career with 1028 points. Brian Kennedy, Steve Steitz, and Lou DiMonaco scored 382 points, 325 points, and 172 points respectively during the year. Leading men in the backcourt were Brian Kennedy with 303 rebounds and E.L.'s "bears off the boards" Doug and Dave Brega with 201 and 87 rebounds respectively. Even in defeat the Spartans played well, losing twice by only a few points. The first Agawam game proved to be a real heartbreaker when the E.L. five lost by one point in overtime. In the next game with Enfield, the tables were turned when Doug Brega held onto a rebound in the closing seconds to clinch a Spartan victory. After staying in winning position all evening, E.L. lost to Agawam 77—67, still retaining a berth in the Small Schools Tournament.

Coach Paul Tarsa's pucksters skated to a successful season, compiling a 10—5—1 record. The hustling Spartans were always in contention and not until the last game of the season with Classical was the Wright Division title denied them by one point. The Spartan icemen showed plenty of determination and stamina, combined with the league's highest scoring offense and stingiest defense. High men with their scores and assists were Tom Downie (12,10), George Glassanos (11,6), Bob Butler (10,8), and Gene Duggan (8,8). Perhaps the only thing the Spartans six lacked was luck. In the final game of the season, the team fell behind by three goals. A lesser team would have collapsed, but the fighting Spartans turned rout into a cliff-hanger by scoring two quick goals, and only time prevented them from scoring more.

The highlight of the season occurred when our E.L. six knocked Chicopee Comp out of first place—a spot the Spartans held themselves until the last game. Dave Buddington, Bob Butler, and Tom Downie scored, while Dan Melien turned in an outstanding performance at the nets. With a winning effort against every team in the league, the Spartans proved they were a match for any squad. The record compiled was a result of a tremendous team effort.

Robert D. Camp, Jr.
Senior Guidance Counselor

Here is a man whose everyday concern is youth —a man who is building tomorrow by preparing us today. Each of us, as a senior, seeks counsel with him, enjoys his support, and makes plans for the future under his guidance. This is a man concerned with the individual—a man we can go to when we feel insecure or undecided. He is always there to help youth. This is Mr. Camp, the man the class of 1966 has chosen to honor in this fifth volume of the Aegis. In acknowledging him here, we are saying "thank you" for giving us recommendations, for making telephone calls for us, for being a friend. In no way could we ever fully repay you, Mr. Camp, but we hope that this recognition will show you that we appreciate a man who cares.

Mrs. Adeline Wilk
Senior Class Advisor

Francis J. Dutille
Senior Class Advisor

John Donne said, "No man is an island," meaning that no man depends entirely upon himself. No graduating class can succeed alone either, and we will always be grateful for the needed assistance that you, Mrs. Wilk and Mr. Dutille, have always been so willing to give. As our advisors, you helped us take the last steps in the journey the underclassmen are just beginning . . . but next year we will begin again. May our thanks to you be shown in our preparedness for that longest journey: the journey of life.

Behold the Seniors!

This SENIOR section, truly a diamond with its countless facets, displays us in the various tones and hues that are life: happy and somber, tender and coarse, spirited and apathetic, in triumph and despair, sentimental and cynical, studying and free, as we are, and as we will be. To us, this jewel, this spectrum of seniors, is valuable, nay priceless, but unlike a diamond it glows with its own warm, inner light.

JOSEPH GOGUEN
To provoke laughter without joining in it, heightens the effect.

PETER R. GOODLATTE
The wrong way seems more reasonable.

Feet . . . to walk the road of life

What will remain of today's students in the silent halls of ELHS in months to come? The corridors of time will be haunted with our thousands of footsteps—echoes of FEET jumping for joy, stamping with frustration, or shuffling on the way to class . . . feet quiet in respect for the flag, jumping at a pep rally, or barely moving in dejection after a failure . . . feet that once were here, but have moved on.

NORMA GOSSELIN
Much wisdom often goes with the fewest words.

BONNIE GOULD
When one is frank, her very presence is a compliment.

The spirit giveth life

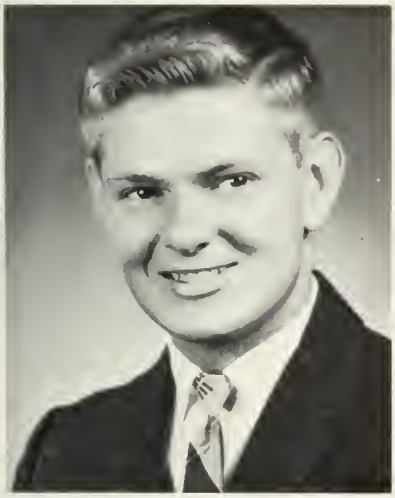

You can see it in the crowd at a football game, in the pride of Aegis time, or in the simple act of wearing a class ring. You can hear it in the cheering at a pep rally, in the singing of the Alma Mater, or in the speeches before a class election. Everywhere you look or listen at ELHS, you are aware of an attitude of sincere enthusiasm: that indefinable quality known as spirit. We are full of SPIRIT at East Longmeadow High, and we are proud of that fact . . .

LESLEY ANN LORENT

For knowledge too, is understanding

Today's youths are perpetually delving into, interpreting, and challenging the mysteries which consistently thwart and encompass them. Tomorrow's questions will inevitably be more difficult to comprehend; so we must STUDY now. The satisfaction one receives from study is readily apparent. One may strive and accomplish alone or with others, but he will eventually be victorious in his quest for knowledge.

The joy of life is people.

Leave us free while time is winging

The FREE TIME which a high school student can find in his busy schedule is as essential to education as is studying. In his free time a youth has the opportunity to pursue his own interests and develop into an individual. Whether spent at a party, working on a car, on a date, working at a part-time job, or merely socializing at Friendly's, free time affords the teenager a chance to release himself from adult rule and create his own world.

Publishing a YEARBOOK

Is As Simple As

A Y C

To the casual reader a yearbook is often simply an "album" of pictures with written text. Merely ink on paper . . . though nice to own and enjoy.

But to the staff and adviser the yearbook means much more. For yearbook work comprises a multitude of details: Layout, Art, Photography, Copy, Typography, Covers and Binding, (not to mention the small detail of money-raising). Highly technical and often time-consuming and a source of anxiety to a staff unless the publisher's representative is trained to give needed help and suggestions.

At American your publisher's representative is a member of the school's yearbook team. He is skilled in the many facets of yearbook work, having at his fingertips the answers to yearbook problems as well as a multitude of ideas. He is always there when you need him.

This is why we say "Publishing a Yearbook is as simple as AYC."
